

Designing for Social Good

Creating a Glasgow where all lives are better, and people and planet are the priority.

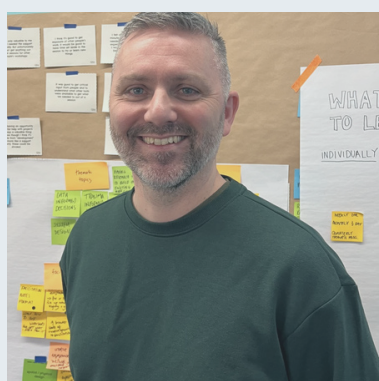

Thursday 15 February 12:30 - 13:30

Please book your place using the QR code or this link

Learn about how design sits at the heart of digital leadership through this fascinating insight into the work of the Centre for Civic Innovation within Glasgow City Council.

At the Council's Centre for Civic Innovation, they are developing and inspiring a network of designers and solvers across the breadth of the city to enthuse and empower citizens and staff to co-design the city they want to live in.

Stevie McGowan

Stevie McGowan leads The Centre for Civic Innovation, a pioneering citizen-centred design team within Glasgow City Council, responsible for establishing a design-led approach to the understanding of societal shifts and civic experiences within the city.

Stevie graduated in Graphic Design before accepting a role in a tech innovation company focussed on developing ground-breaking innovative solutions, systems design, UX and UI. He then moved into the public sector and has worked in a number of lead roles across local government with a track record of developing teams that deliver award winning, people focussed solutions.

Digital Health & Care Scotland

DIGITALLY ENABLED WORKFORCE

NHS Education for Scotland

X @nes_dew #nesdew

Part of the Exploring Digital Leadership Webinar Series